WHO'S S-S-S-SCARED? A dear friend, whose name must remain anonymous for obvious reasons, is afraid of neither man nor beast—unless, that is, it's Friday the 13th, in which case he's scared of his own shadow. Our photographer rapped 13 times on the superstitious one's door last night, peeked inside and caught our friend in hibernation. Only after threatening to break a mirror did the fotog succeed in persuading his subject to raise the covers far enough to get this picture. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

American Killed Trying To Save 5 Castro Foes

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban soldiers and sailors ambushed, shot down and killed an American pilot Thursday on a highway outside Havana. They said he was on a secret flight to smuggle out fugitives.

This latest U.S.-based plane flight is certain to add fuel to the anti-American campaign already being conducted here by the press, radio and organizations backing Prime Minister Fidel Castro. They claim the United States is getting ready to attack Cuba.

On U. S. Blacklist
The dead pilot was identified as Matthews Edward Duke, 45, an adventure-loving airman whose last known address was in Palm Beach, Fla. Florida has been the takeoff point for a number of illegal flights to Cuba, and Duke was one of 29 fliers already on the U.S. border patrol's blacklist.

Alport operators had been warned by U.S. authorities not to rent a plane to Duke under any circumstances. The Federal Aviation Agency said he managed to rent one recently at Baton Rouge, La., by saying he was flying to Texas for a cargo of spare airplane parts.

The Cuban version of the incident, as reported in an official announcement, said Duke flew to Cuba in a twin-engine plane on Sunday and took three Cuban men out of the country. The rendezvous point was within sight of the naval academy at Mariel, about 15 miles north of Havana.

Set Trap
Police and naval parties said they let Duke's plane get away so they could lay a trap on his next trip.

Before dawn Thursday morning, a car with five Cubans pulled up at the same spot. They got out and hid in the bushes near a fishing village known as El Mosquito. Military and naval officials surrounded the area.

Half an hour later Duke landed on the highway, but apparently saw something that tipped him off to the ambush, gunned his engines and tried to escape. The Cubans opened fire, hit the plane and it crashed. Duke was found dead in the wreckage with four bullet wounds.

Agree On Space Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—An authorization of 970 million dollars for civilian space activities—some 55 million more than President Eisenhower asked—was agreed to by a Senate-House compromise Committee Thursday.

Plane Not Damaged

Turbulence In jures 13 In Jet

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Thirteen persons, including two stewardesses and two children, were injured Thursday when a Delta Air Lines jet plane flying nonstop from Chicago to Miami ran into turbulence 30 miles from its destination.

The plane, Flight 803, landed safely at Miami International Airport and officials said it apparently was not damaged. It carried 48 passengers and seven crew members.

Capt. Reed Knight of Fort Lauderdale, pilot of the DC8B, said the plane made the flight

Rain Totals .80 Of Inch In Borough

DESPITE heavy rains yesterday, no flood danger was reported in Monroe County as of last night. The Daily Record was advised.

As of 8:30 p.m. yesterday, the rain gauge at The Daily Record office had registered .8 of an inch of precipitation since the same time on Wednesday. Rainfall for the week totaled 1.55 inches.

The Millford Toll Bridge office in its check of the river stage at that point reported the river at about 6.38 feet, which is far below flood stage.

Officials there stated the river was only slightly above normal at 8:30 p.m. yesterday.

Civil Defense in the county had not moved to alert anyone of flood danger in a check with that office last night.

Spy Case Result Of World Tension

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told Parliament Thursday night the celebrated American spy plane case is the result—not the cause—of world tension.

Thus, he said, the Paris summit conference opening Monday has the chance to settle grave problems.

In effect Macmillan sided with the United States in its view that spying on the Soviet Union from the air was forced by the Iron Curtain and East-West fears.

"Espionage is not a cause," Macmillan said. "It is an effect of the suspicion and tension between great powers."

Good Morning!

Every year is leap year for the pedestrians.

Eisenhower To Cooperate At Summit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States said Thursday night the Soviet Union's handling of the American spy plane case raises doubts about the Soviets' readiness to reduce tensions at the East-West summit conference.

In a formal note, the State Department said President Eisenhower will go to Paris prepared to cooperate fully in seeking East-West agreements to ease tensions.

Branded Hostile
The note came in reply to a Soviet protest demanding an immediate halt to all U.S. spy flights over the Soviet Union. The Soviets two days ago branded such flights "hostile acts" and threatened to retaliate in the future against them.

In a brief answer delivered in Moscow Thursday the United States again acknowledged that it has sent such flights over the Soviet Union but "for purely defensive purposes."

The note emphatically denied that these flights have any aggressive intent or that the penetration by an unarmed U2 high-flying jet was ordered to block success of the Paris summit meeting.

The note also rejected the accusation that the flight was a move to turn U.S.-Soviet relations back to the "worst times of the cold war."

Soviet Intentions
"Indeed," the note added, "it is the Soviet government's treatment of this case which, if anything, may raise questions about its intentions in respect to these matters."

The 200-word American reply said the State Department statement of last Monday fully stated the government position on such flights.

At that time, the department said such aerial intelligence operations were an urgent necessity because the Soviet Union has closed off its borders, making it difficult to determine whether any sneak attack is being planned against the West.

Isador Zuka Dies At 67

BLAKESLEE—Isador Zuka, 67, died yesterday at 4:30 p.m. at his home here.

Daniel G. Warner, county coroner, investigated along with Dr. James G. Kitchen, attending physician, and ruled that death was the result of natural causes, a coronary occlusion.

Mr. Zuka, the coroner said, had been in poor health for some time and was discharged two months ago from the Wilkes-Barre Hospital after undergoing treatment for pneumonia and a heart attack.

He came here about nine and one-half years ago and had lived at the Blakeslee Hotel operated by Frank Daily.

Urges Death Ray Bomb Info

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) called on President Eisenhower Thursday to tell the American people what he knows about a neutron bomb which Dodd said would emit a kind of death ray.

Aly Khan Killed

PARIS (AP)—Prince Aly Khan, wealthy sportsman-diplomat, was killed in a suburban highway crash Thursday night while driving in from the races with a beautiful woman at his side.

He would have been 49 in June. His sports car and a light sedan crashed together on a highway at Suresnes as he was returning from an afternoon at the Longchamps race track.

With him were the French model Bettina, a constant companion on his European visits, and his chauffeur, who was riding as a passenger while Aly drove. Neither Bettina nor the chauffeur was reported seriously hurt.

Prince Aly had turned to sober-sided diplomacy as Pakistan's ambassador to the United Nations in recent years, but he still played a lower-keyed role as a fancier of women and horses. He was the father of the reigning young Aga Khan IV. The latter succeeded to the title while he was a student at Harvard three years ago.

Once Wed Actress
The 48-year-old Prince Aly whose ill-fated marriage with Rita

Hayworth was a glittering Riviera event of 1949, died almost immediately from his injuries.

Officials at Foch Hospital said he suffered a fractured skull, possible broken neck and fractured legs. They said he died as a hospital elevator took him to an emergency operating room.

Bettina (Simone Bodin) suffered a deep cut ranging down the center of her forehead to one side of her face. The chauffeur was slightly injured.

There was no immediate information available on the occupants of the other car. Witnesses at the scene said one was identified as a Mr. Bettiford and had suffered two broken legs.

Rumors floated around Paris after the accident that Aly Khan and Bettina had been secretly married. This could not be confirmed.

Quit Auto Racing

The first son of the late Aga Khan III, Prince Aly loved to drive fast cars but in recent years had given up auto racing.

"That's a young man's sport," he remarked recently to friends. Aly was married in 1949 to Miss Hayworth. Less than two years later she started a divorce suit.

The case, with the accompanying property settlement for their daughter Yasmin, dragged through the courts for several years.

Aly Khan was named Pakistan's chief delegate to the United Nations, Feb. 6, 1955, and after a few weeks in the post made an impression as a hard working, serious minded ambassador.

He was born in Turin, Italy, June 13, 1911, the son of Aga Khan III by the second of his four wives, an Italian ballet dancer named Theresa Magliano.

Foreign Legion

He was an officer with the French Foreign Legion, then with the British army, and during the latter part of World War II was attached to the American Army. He won the Bronze Star, Croix de Guerre and Legion of Honor.

Aly Khan had been married twice. His first wife was Joan Yarde-Buller Guinness, daughter of an English nobleman.

When the old Aga Khan died in the summer of 1957, Aly was passed over as the new Imam, or spiritual leader of the Ismaili sect of the Shiah Branch of Islam, in favor of his son, Prince Karim, then a Harvard student. The Ismailis are estimated at up to 20 million believers in India, Pakistan, Iran, Syria, east Africa and elsewhere.

Aly Khan had been scheduled to go to New York Sunday to spend three days en route to Buenos Aires, Argentina. He had just been appointed ambassador to Argentina in addition to his U.N. assignment. He was going to the Argentine capital to present his credentials and attend a celebration of the 150th anniversary of Argentina's independence.

Wing Flutter Caused Two Plane Wrecks

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Lockheed Aircraft Corp. Thursday blamed a terrifyingly unpredictable sky phenomenon—violent fluttering of an airliner's wings developing so quickly they snapped in less than a minute—for two crashes of its proud Electra jets.

Ninety-seven persons died in the crashes in Indiana and Texas. Both planes lost wings while flying in seemingly safe weather.

Reporting on its intensive study to find the cause of the tragedies, Lockheed told a closed gathering of the pilots who fly them and the airline executives who buy them: At speeds over 300 m.p.h.—the Electra cruises at 400 m.p.h.—damage in the outboard engine area from some undetermined cause, possibly a hard landing, teamed with an external force created by high speed to cause an abnormal flutter.

30-50 Seconds

Wings flapped up and down at the rate of three cycles per second. It took from 30 to 50 seconds for them to reach the snapping point.

The Northwest Airlines plane that crashed near Tell City, Ind., March 17, killing 63, lost a wing during a downward flap.

The Braniff plane that crashed near Buffalo City, Tex., last Sept. 29, killing 34, lost a wing on the upward cycle.

Wing flutter normally is controlled by construction processes. But an abnormal flutter is likely to develop a motion that can increase to the breaking point. This apparently is what happened.

The firm said it will submit design changes to the Federal Aviation Agency within a few weeks. The modifications are expected to cost about 25 million dollars.

Atlas Has Trouble

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force attempted to launch an Atlas missile on a historic 9,000-mile flight Thursday but was frustrated by last-second trouble. A rocket engine was cut off after being ignited.

Nikita Attacks War Statement; Spy Faces Trial

MOSCOW (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's defense of the spy plane incident "is the kind of statement that could only be made by a country in a state of war," Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev declares.

"If the United States is going to unleash war and if they have never experienced an atom bomb on their territory, they certainly will in the first minutes of a war," he added.

These blunt statements were released from censorship Thursday 20 hours after Khrushchev talked at a news conference of Soviet and foreign correspondents.

Powers Denounced

Khrushchev castigated Francis G. Powers, pilot of the U2 jet reconnaissance plane downed May Day deep inside the Soviet Union for making "a gangster and bandit raid."

"We shall try him—try him severely as a spy," he said. The penalty for spying is from 10 years in prison to death before a firing squad.

But Khrushchev saved his sharpest remarks for Herter as he talked to correspondents at an exhibit of espionage articles the Soviets say Powers carried aboard his plane.

Herter had defended the right of a nation to make reconnaissance flights over the territory of a possible enemy and declared such flights would continue.

This, said Khrushchev, is "a threat to peace. If there are any further such aggressions we will strike out at the aggressors."

Shaking his fist and looking very angry, the Premier declared: "These are audacious. And that is why I say these statements were audacious and brazen. Impudence! Impudence! Impudence!"

Very excited, Khrushchev continued: "Herter says the Soviet Union is to blame because it does not give the United States access to its secrets and the United States needs to have that access."

"So the President gave instructions to find out the Soviet Union's secrets. That is certainly a bandit-like statement. We are not living under United States law. We have laws of our own and we will make those on our territory obey them."

Can't See Powers

Khrushchev ridiculed the request by the U. S. charge d'affaires, Edward Freer, for permission to see Powers. Freer made his request Tuesday and was given no reply.

"The Americans have sent us a note on this question and asked to be allowed to have an interview with him. But they themselves understand that this is too much," Khrushchev said.

"The pilot is now under investigation. He is a spy, isn't he? So how can one speak about an interview with him? He must answer before our Soviet courts."

Concern Felt As Summit Talks Near

PARIS (AP)—Preparations for the Big Four summit conference moved briskly ahead amid increasing concern here about effects of the U. S. spy plane incident on the top-level talks.

As workmen hammered, cleaned and file-laden clerks dashed to and fro, French President Charles de Gaulle presided over a lengthy Cabinet session devoted largely to summit arrangements.

"It's certain that the conference, because of the airplane incident, will open in an atmosphere infinitely more uncertain than one thought before," Information Minister Louis Terrenoire told newsmen.

"It is disquieting to see what point this regrettable incident has been underscored by the Soviets, who have attempted to exploit it to the maximum."

Mutual Indignation

The independent newspaper Le Monde said is an editorial devoted to the summit. "There is a risk that next week's meeting will be the occasion of a great display of mutual indignation" because of the plane affair.

It seemed clear here that the incident would be one of the first subjects to be thrashed over in weekend talks among Western leaders before they sit down with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev Monday.

Negotiations have been going on with Moscow to insure secrecy for the crucial sessions of the Big Four talks. Western sources said President de Gaulle, acting as the summit host, has been in contact with Khrushchev on the matter.

Reliable information said Khrushchev has agreed on the principle of private meetings with participation limited to the Big Four and interpreters. This would comply with de Gaulle's long expressed desire for a "tranquil" atmosphere at the summit.

Sees Compromise On Aid Plan

SCRANTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said Thursday night a quick compromise on a new area redevelopment bill is possible in Congress. He spoke in evident belief President Eisenhower will veto a 251-million-dollar Democratic bill. Republican congressional leaders in Washington have forecast a veto, probably Friday.

Cause And Recognitions Of Mental Illness Told

By Don Allen
CAUSES of mental illness and how to recognize it were discussed last night at the annual dinner of the Monroe County Mental Health Assn. at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

The speaker was Ralph E. Davis, director of psychological services and activity treatment at Clarks Summit State Hospital.

Defining mental health as "feeling pretty good," Davis listed as the physical causes of mental illness aging, alcohol and drugs and brain injury. The other causes, sometimes referred to as psychological, include childhood experience, trauma, loss of loved ones, world crisis and daily pressure.

Davis said the word which best expresses the situation of the mentally ill is extremes.

Mood Extremes

He cited extremes of mood and thought, extremes in behavior and lack of sense of reality as danger signals and broke the disease down into two classes — neurotics and psychotics.

The neurotic, Davis said, is frightened of everything. A person in this condition is full of fears, insecurities and anxieties.

"They succeed not only in being miserable themselves, they make everyone else miserable," he said.

Most Serious

He said that the psychotic is "the most serious form of mental illness" and added that 80 per cent of the hospital population at Clarks Summit is schizophrenic.

"The psychotic, in contrast to the neurotic, removes himself from the world of reality," Davis said. "With what he has in his fantasy, he can only create a world of terror."

Davis pointed to a growing trend toward treatment of the mentally ill in the environment which caused their illness and said the average stay at Clarks Summit is about three months.

"You can't treat a patient out of the situation which caused his condition," he added.

He listed as necessities for mental health understanding and knowledge of abilities, ambition, feelings, conscience and intelligence.

He urged persons with problems to look honestly at themselves, to avoid being ashamed — "We all have faults and defects. If we didn't have them we'd probably have greater problems" — to seek help, remember that they are human, check their values to decide whether they are right for the culture in which we live, get rest and have a safety valve.

Davis said that chances of improvement are about 600 per cent better if it is started early and is done at home.

He also told the group it should spread the word about mental health. "Find out more than you already know and inform someone else. You may be saving someone else from an emotional illness of long duration," he concluded.

ONE OR THE OTHER—The mentally ill person can be classified as neurotic or psychotic, Ralph Davis, director of psychological services and activity treatment at Clarks Summit State Hospital, told the Monroe County Mental Health Assn. last night. Lending an attentive ear to Davis (left) are Mrs. Shirley Cummings, elected president last night, and Dr. John A. Abbruzzese Jr., out-going president. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Court Finds Woman Guilty

MRS. Patricia Harrison Robinson, 44, Pearl St., Stroudsburg, yesterday was found guilty of larceny in the theft of $1,600 from Five Points Tavern, Main St., Stroudsburg.

A Monroe County Court jury debated for approximately one hour and 50 minutes before returning the verdict to Judge Fred W. Davis.

Edwin Krawitz, court-appointed attorney for Mrs. Robinson, asked for a poll of the jury; then told the court he plans to file motions for an arrest of judgment or new trial.

Judge Davis continued Mrs. Robinson under $2,500 bail until such time as Dist. Atty. James R. Marsh can inspect the property which is the security for the bail.

The jurist indicated the bail may be increased if the value of the property warrants it.

The case was the last scheduled for the current term of court.

McCartney Blasts Video

LANSFORD, Pa. (AP)—The head of Pennsylvania's state police said Thursday night that a segment of the country's population is being held up to ridicule by distortions in television remarks.

In remarks prepared for the "I Am An American" celebration of the Panther Valley chapter of UNICO, an Italian service club, Col. Frank G. McCartney said the same programs hurt law enforcement by making agents appear to be miracle men.

"Many of UNICO's members are affected by the slander and distortion, the misrepresentation of their heritage and their present lives," the state police commissioner said.

Leonard said the campaign is being supported by businessmen, industrialists, and professional people of the region. While the university is operated by the Jesuit Society, it is a community college open to young men of all religious denominations.

The university was founded in 1888 and has graduated more than 5,000 men who have become doctors, lawyers, and professional workers. Many of them have remained in Northeastern Pennsylvania.

During the past five years, the university has increased its physical plant by the erection of a science building, dormitory, student center and library.

During this period, the university spent more than five million dollars in new construction and an additional six million dollars in operational expenses, all of which contributed to the economic life of the area, crusade officials pointed out.

The present campaign is to replace temporary Navy barracks with a new classroom building. The family appeal is designed to reach not only the Catholic families in the diocese but other friends of the university as well, Leonard said.

Peterson was chairman of the program which supplied blood free of charge at the General Hospital and at out of county hospitals upon request of residents.

The Volunteer Services with Mrs. Walter Dreher as chairman, contributed 14,785 hours of service during the year.

In the home service department reported 127 active cases, 793 requests for help, 75 families given assistance and 12 loans and grants to servicemen and their families, as well as disaster assistance.

Nearly 82 Percent

In the 1960 fund campaign, LeRoy Mikels, chairman, reported $17,933 collected which is 81.49 percent of the quota and pledged to continue to work toward making the total goal.

Col. Edward E. Moran, deputy commander of the Signal Depot at Tobyhanna, spoke of the help which the local chapter of the Red Cross has rendered the servicemen stationed at the depot.

He is being transferred to Washington, D. C., and spoke his praise of the whole community, particularly the Civil Defense which he said is the best organized unit he has seen.

Col. Moran also showed some of the latest developments of the Signal Corps, especially the micro-miniaturization of radio equipment.

State Police To Re-Form Detective Unit In Summer

that the State Police Detective Bureau would be reestablished sometime this summer.

The bureau was abolished in 1956 and since then the work has been handled by a 10-man investigation team working out of regional headquarters in Harrisburg.

It was not made public how many men would be assigned to the bureau. At the time it was abolished there were 25 men working in the bureau.

Top Investigators

The appointments will go to the finest criminal investigators on the force. Every detective will have had at least 10 years experience in investigation and have proven his ability as an outstanding officer, it was pointed out.

The titles detective, detective sergeant, detective lieutenant and detective captain will be revived.

They will be the equivalent to sergeant, first sergeant, lieutenant and captain on the regular force.

Highways Secretary Park H. Martin has yet to be sold on the idea of borrowing 150 million dollars to speed construction of the Keystone Shortway.

Directors of the Shortway Assn. proposed at a meeting in Sharon this week that the General Assembly authorize the State Highway and Bridge Authority to borrow the money from private lenders.

They argue that stepped-up spending on the project now would save the state and federal governments large sums of money in the long run because road building costs are rising steadily each year.

Secretary Martin does not dispute the directors' contention. He insists, however, that such a step would be unfair to other highway projects included with the Shortway in the proposed interstate program. These include the Delaware and Anthracite Expressways, among others.

The state's problem stems from its lack of sufficient funds to finance the entire interstate program along with other highway commitments such as road projects in which the state pays either all or one-half the costs. Under the interstate program, the federal government pays 90 percent of the construction costs.

Secretary Martin says the state's highway system is outdated and must be improved. His department, he says, has outlined an ambitious road-building and improvement schedule, but it cannot possibly keep pace with the growing traffic needs unless more money is forthcoming.

He offers a solution to the problem by advocating a one-cent-a-gallon increase in the state gasoline tax and urging supporters of major highway proposals and users of roads to join the Lawrence Administration in winning legislative approval of the tax.

The 1959 Legislature killed a similar proposal in the mistaken belief that more money was not needed. Since then, there appears to be a better understanding of the state's plight with respect to highway financing.

Still greater support of the gas-tax increase is necessary, however, if the Highways Department's fiscal position is to be strengthened to the point where Pennsylvania can expedite its road-building program.

We as motorists, demand modern and safe highways. They cannot be built without money. The fairest way to underwrite the costs is by letting those who use the roads pay a modest increase in gas taxes. Such is the suggestion of Governor Lawrence and Secretary Martin. We think it is worthy of the support of our legislators.

Shot Heard 'Round The World

The Pennsylvania Story

Muskets Primed

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — The Battle of Little Big Horn is scheduled to be fought all over again this Fall — this time on Pennsylvania soil, complete with cavalry charge and the rattling of sabres.

When it is all over there will be some scalps in the old pouch.

Who will portray the victorious Indians or luckless General Custer and his band of hardy U.S. Cavalrymen in their massacre of 1876, remains to be determined.

Preliminary skirmish of this modern Battle of Little Big Horn (the great too) was held last month on the plains of north central Pennsylvania when during the April 26 primary Republican Herman T. Schneebeli, Williamsport businessman defeated Democratic opponent Dean R. Fisher, Williamsport attorney, in the race for congressman from the eighth-county 17th congressional (shoestring) district.

Important point at the moment revolves around the fact that the congressional seat will be up for filling for a full term in this Fall's general election.

It is this upcoming 17th district contest centered in the counties of Bradford, Cameron, Clinton, Columbia, Lycoming, Montour, Potter and Tioga, that is something more than just a run-of-the-mill contest this year.

It is generally viewed by those on both sides of the political fence here on Capitol Hill as one of the prime guideposts of the future for Pennsylvania's at-the-crossroads politics.

It is a district that has been swinging heavily in recent years from long entrenched Republicanism. Both the registration figures and the votes cast point up this factor. Today it is classified as a "close" district — and as such a possible indicator of things to come.

In reality it is another Battle of Little Big Horn — but this time loaded with heavy political overtones.

In the April run-off both sides threw in the works — or as much as they could muster — in spirited determination to emerge the winner. Republican Schneebeli won, but —

The margin of victory was only some 4000 votes out of around 85,000 cast. In 1956 when the same Dean Fisher ran against the then incumbent Republican Alvin R. Bush, the margin of victory was almost 22,000.

It is expected that both Mr. Fisher and Mr. Schneebeli will again go at it for the full term this Fall — with Democrats confident Mr. Fisher has an excellent chance of winning, especially if the new "great white father" being sent to Washington happens to be a Democrat.

The GOP win of last month must be considered a marginal win — in light of the slim majority and the tremendous effort expended in producing the win.

kicked off the campaign for winner Schneebeli, three out-of-state GOP congressmen were hauled into the picture, and also from the national scene one Pennsylvania — U.S. Senator Hugh Scott — campaigned in behalf of the Republican campaign.

Candidate Fisher had only Pennsylvania for the most part in his campaign — Governor Lawrence, U.S. Senator Joseph Clark and Congressman Daniel Flood. Republicans had a squad from GOP headquarters in Washington for the campaign — Mr. Fisher one man from Democratic State Headquarters here in Harrisburg, plus his wife.

Republicans spent an estimated $50,000 in the campaign; Democrats around $20,000.

Unquestionably on the more dramatic side, the new "Battle of Little Big Horn" is destined to be fought in the 17th congressional district this Fall. The muskets already are being primed!

Off The Record

By Robert Clark, City Editor

Clyde Burke, the public relations chief at Tobyhanna Signal Depot, is busy these days promoting the Pocono Mountain Chamber of Commerce membership campaign.

The self-styled Kentucky colonel has several outstanding gimmicks up his sleeves to increase the CC's membership to a record high.

Bryden Taylor, writer-lecturer and former radio man, is going in the landscaping business these days.

Bryden, one of the most popular personalities in Monroe County is doing his work from the back of his house on Colbert St., however.

With the new Stroudsburgs Thruway passing within a stone's throw of his rear windows, Taylor has ideas of putting a ski run down to the new highway when it is completed.

Al Snyder, the diner man out Snyder's way, is telling his friends that he has given up watching baseball.

An avowed Boston rooster via Ted Williams, Al turned to disgust toward the diamond sport. Reason — the practically inactivity of Williams.

Leonard Reish, the Dinah Shore's chief booster in the area, says his tomatoes are three-feet high already and that his corn will be out by June 15.

Leonard, a Cherry Valley land man, is a qualified expert in the farming field. But folks down his way and in town say he is a better garage man.

Take your choice either way and you will get a pretty good hunk of worthwhile advice.

Social Security Guide

Q—I became disabled on June 9, 1958, when I was injured in an accident. At the time, I was working as a State employee in a job which was not covered by social security. However, I have worked under social security in the past. I am over 50 years of age. Can I qualify for social security benefits?

A—Contact your nearest social security office. In order to qualify for disability benefits or to have your social security record frozen, you must have worked under social security for at least 5 out of the 10 years. The person to whom you talk will be able to check your work record and tell you if you meet this requirement. If you do, he will help you make an application for disability benefits.

The Allen-Scott Report

Rocky Still In Race

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is making some remarkably elaborate preparations for the Republican convention in Chicago — in view of his public withdrawal from the presidential race.

Among these backstage preparations is the leasing of a 500-room hotel for Rockefeller, a large corps of lieutenants and assistants, and the New York delegation.

Plans also are already underway for Rockefeller to "meet and entertain" every delegate at the convention. It is his avowed intention to talk personally to every one of the 1,331 delegates.

These extensive convention preparations are explained by the New York governor's aides on two grounds:

(1) To be ready for "any eventuality" that might throw the GOP nomination wide open. Rockefeller is portrayed as deeming this very unlikely. But on the outside chance it might happen, he is determined to be set to make the most of it.

(2) Build for the future. The New Yorker still has his eyes fixed on the White House, and is passing up no opportunity to further that lofty ambition.

Former Gov. Thomas Dewey is convinced Rockefeller can be persuaded to be Vice President Nixon's running mate — "under certain conditions."

These circumstances as Dewey has outlined them to Nixon, are that the Republicans have sonally to every one of the 1,331 delegates.

These extensive convention preparations are explained by the New York governor's aides on two grounds:

(1) To be ready for "any eventuality" that might throw the GOP nomination wide open. Rockefeller is portrayed as deeming this very unlikely. But on the outside chance it might happen, he is determined to be set to make the most of it.

(2) Build for the future. The New Yorker still has his eyes fixed on the White House, and is passing up no opportunity to further that lofty ambition.

Former Gov. Thomas Dewey is convinced Rockefeller can be persuaded to be Vice President Nixon's running mate — "under certain conditions."

These circumstances as Dewey has outlined them to Nixon, are that the Republicans have a better-than-even chance to win in November. Should that appear likely at the time of the convention in July, Rockefeller could be induced to take second place.

But if the prospects seem uncertain, in Dewey's opinion, Rockefeller will stick by his intention that he is not interested in the vice presidency.

Meanwhile, significantly, National Chairman Thurston Morton is carefully slamming no doors on the GOP presidential nomination; and ardent Rockefeller partisans are continuing to beat the drums for him.

Morton has issued strict orders to the National Committee's staff to be "meticulously neutral." He has banned the distribution of Nixon-for-President literature and buttons, and directed that all inquiries regarding the Vice President's campaign be referred to his office.

Foremost among the Rockefeller zealots continuing to boom him is Maxwell Rabb, former secretary of President Eisenhower's cabinet. In trips about the country, numerous letters and phone calls, Rabb is still urging Rockefeller's nomination.

Also polls are regularly being made in key states to sound out Rockefeller sentiment as compared to Nixon and leading Democratic candidates.

Another fervent Rockefeller booster still working hard for him is "Tex" McCrary, New York publicity specialist who played a leading role in the 1952 drive that nominated President Eisenhower. According to Rockefeller insiders, McCrary will "pull some surprises out of a hat in a few weeks."

Governor Rockefeller already has accepted one speaking date in September.

He has agreed to make the principal address at a bipartisan dinner in honor of Rep. Joseph Martin in his home town, North Attleboro, Mass. Rockefeller was invited at Martin's request.

The occasion will launch the former speaker's autobiography — "My First 50 Years in Politics."

Politics — Two professors have joined Vice President Nixon's growing campaign staff. They are Professor Charles Lichtenstein, Notre Dame University, who is in charge of research, and Stanley McCaffrey, vice president of the University of California.

No one gains any excess weight at Nixon's political lunches and dinners in his Capitol office. Usually served is lean beef or a small steak, no potatoes, a salad and no dessert. Says Nixon to his guests, "We have to keep in shape for the coming election. It's going to be tough and we have to be in condition for it."

New Hampshire's controversial Governor Wesley Powell is a strong supporter of Vice President Nixon, but has no chance of being his running mate — much as Powell wants that.

Although he hasn't as yet announced for re-election, Powell is giving every sign of intending to do so. It will be a bitter fight as former Governor Hugh Gregg has already thrown his hat into the ring.

In line with Nixon's efforts to get vigorous candidates on the Republican ticket throughout the country, he is strongly urging former Representative Cliff Young to again seek Nevada's lone House seat this year.

Young tried for the Senate in 1956, but didn't make it. State GOP leaders rate him as one of the best vote-getters in their party.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Pay Back And Forget

The news was carried recently of a man having offered to make restitution of some $39,000 to escape trial on a charge of fraud.

This isn't unusual. In the past there have been many settlements worked out on just that basis and in all the courts.

Usually the first concern of the private prosecutor is to get the money back and if there is a trial and conviction it isn't certain this will be achieved. After all the criminal courts do not constitute a bill collecting agency even thought many constantly strive to use it for this purpose.

There are many instances where settlements in these cases appeared to be real justice in action. Those involved will never stray again.

There is, however, always danger in such settlements, particularly when the amount involved is substantial. It's rather easy for others to reason, "I'll try and if I get caught all I'll have to do is give the money back. And if I don't get caught it's mine."

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Khrushchev's Jitters

It is beginning to appear that Nikita Khrushchev wants to call off the Summit Conference or President Eisenhower's visit to Soviet Russia or both.

The Summit Conference can now amount to nothing.

Too much is occurring before the conference to make it more than a meeting of an estranged husband and wife in a lawyer's office. The bloom has withered.

The visit of President Eisenhower to Russia in June is something else. There can be no question but that President Eisenhower ordinarily would bring cheer and good-will to the Russian people. He has been blessed with a charming personality which quickly wins friends.

Khrushchev is doing everything conceivable to break down the will of the Russian people to receive Eisenhower with enthusiasm. He may be afraid of the political consequences of such a reception. It may no longer suit his purposes to have it happen.

Khrushchev is now engaged in a vast enterprise of anti-Americanism in Latin America, the center of which is presently Cuba. He may not want this enterprise interrupted even by the external of friendship.

Khrushchev has a particular hatred for Vice President Nixon who bowled him over in a free debate in public in Moscow. Khrushchev can give pretty insulting talk but he cannot take any back-talk. This was early learned by Malenkov, Molotov and Kaganovich.

He chose the opening of the American Fair to give Nixon a bad time. With the skill of a trained debater, Nixon turned the tables and to use an old phrase, made a monkey out of Khrushchev. For this reason, Khrushchev hates Nixon and has made his hatred plain for all to see.

But there have been no prior indications that he also disliked Eisenhower or feared him. In fact, the spirit of Camp David was a Khrushchev slogan for a while.

Khrushchev's present conduct is making it increasingly difficult for President Eisenhower to go to Russia and the efforts are so persistent and so irritating that they are becoming unmistakable and sharply antagonistic.

Khrushchev's game apparently is to get Eisenhower to decline to go. Then the Russian will enter upon a world-wide denunciation of Eisenhower and the United States. If President Eisenhower sits tight, moves according to schedule, Khrushchev may find himself in the embarrassing position of being forced to tell Eisenhower that he does not want him to come.

Such a communication, after the reception that Khrushchev received in this country, would be an intolerable insult. It might result in breaking off relations. It would if there were any pride left in the State Department.

This much is clear: The honeymoon engineered by Cyrus Eaton, Robert Dowling, Eric Johnston and other businessmen is over. The United States has consistently appeased Khrushchev, not to gain time, but with the pacifistic objective of avoiding war. It is not possible to cringe more or to crawl more or to take many more insults. The rejection of Eisenhower's visit could be the last straw.

What is not clear is what circumstances inside Soviet Russia are forcing Khrushchev to reorganize the political forces in his country. He has taken one of his ablest men out of the government and elevated him to the direction of the Communist Party. This elevation of Frol Kozlov would indicate that there is more trouble in Russia than we know. If the party is strong, under the Soviet system, the government will take care of itself.

Stalin trusted no one with power in the party. Khrushchev apparently finds that the load is too heavy to carry and has to have assistance of younger men whose blood pressure is not too high.

But what is the load that has become too heavy? Is it internal? Has a generation which never knew the Revolution been asking too many questions?

No one who is under 43 years of age knew the Revolution. A man of 50 was seven years old when the Revolution occurred. Few men of the Revolution are alive. Finally old Voroshilov, the last of the heroes, has retired from the government.

The new masters may be more efficient than the old ones but they do not have the aura of heroism; they have not been in exile or in Siberia. They are parvenus.

Is this the trouble that has given Khrushchev the jitters about Eisenhower's visit?

Motorists Urged To Be Careful

A PLEA for all drivers to become more safety conscious was sounded here Wednesday by Trooper Thomas P. Anton, State Police, attached to Troop A headquarters in Hazleton.

Speaking at the Kiwanis Club meeting at the Penn Stroud Hotel, Trooper Anton referred to Gov. David Lawrence's far-reaching traffic safety program and closed his remarks by showing colored slides illustrating how serious and often fatal accidents could have been prevented.

"We all overrate ourselves as drivers," the trooper declared in appealing to his listeners to "take it easy" on the highways and to get behind police efforts to cut down on the human slaughter on our streets and roads.

Driver Clinics

He referred to the safe driver clinics aimed at removing the threat of unfit motorists, to the use of radar for educational purposes on state roads, to the new, fool-proof traffic ticket as important phases of the traffic safety program, and to chemical tests for drunken drivers.

Trooper Anton also emphasized the periodic physical re-examination of licensed motorists to start on a limited basis this year and said no driver's road test or oral examination is contemplated.

Last year, he said, 38,700 persons were killed on the nation's highways. This is the equivalent of wiping out the entire population of Monroe County every 12 months.

The speaker, who was accompanied here by Trooper Walter J. Herchak, was introduced by Program Chairman Daniel Warner.

Slab Zinc Rises

NEW YORK (AP)—April stocks of refined slab zinc at smelters increased for the first time in seven months to 147,861 tons, up 11,296 over March, the American Zinc Institute said yesterday.

The rise was credited to a sharp drop in shipments while production on a daily average basis remained at the level of previous months.

AND THE MUSIC went down and around and came out—That's the tempo of St. Matthew's School Youth Band at concert in church auditorium this week. It was the 10th annual performance of the group. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Contractor Lauds Rescuer Of Three

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — "We'd be dead if it weren't for that fellow."

William W. Bennett, Jersey Shore contractor, Thursday singled out for praise 38-year-old Dewey Whipple who rescued Bennett and two companions from the swift, rain-swollen waters of the Susquehanna River near here Thursday night.

Bennett, Doyle Gummo, McEl-Hattan, and Elmer Bachman, Charleiton, were thrown into the river when their boat capsized as they headed upstream.

Whipple, of nearby Linden, witnessed the accident from the river bank where he had been checking the security of his own boat in the high waters. He took his boat out to the floundering men and brought them and their boat safely back to shore.

The three men were in the water about 20 minutes. They did not require treatment.

Gummon also is an area businessman; Bachman is retired. Whipple works in the crankshaft department at the Avco Manufacturing Co. plant here.

Suppose It Were Yours...for an Hour!

Imagine yourself faced with this happy prospect.

Where would you go? What would you do?

Well, we'll wager you'd make some very special plans for the sixty minutes ahead.

For the car that stands in wait so majestically in the soft light of evening is a 1960 Cadillac. And an hour at its wheel is an enchanting prospect indeed.

But no matter where the highway might lead you, we know what your journey would be like.

It would be filled with the most wonderful comfort imaginable. You would be literally surrounded by beauty and luxury and spaciousness—with every conceivable motoring convenience in constant attendance.

You would feel marvelously rested and relaxed. For this great car is incredibly easy to drive . . . and it is miraculously quiet in operation.

And how proud and thrilled you'd be! For it's a remarkable experience to sit here where the world's distinguished motorists ride—and find yourself heir to the approving glances that seem inevitably to come a Cadillac's way.

A pleasant daydream, you say? Not at all.

In fact, the reality is no farther away than your nearest Cadillac dealer's showroom.

Wouldn't tomorrow be a good day to introduce yourself to the "car of cars"?

The Daily Investor

Financial Statements

By William A. Doyle
Q. I retired some years ago but still have an account with a brokerage firm in New York City's financial district. From time to time I go to the branch office of another brokerage firm, near my home, to watch the ticker tape and keep posted on the stock market.
Recently a customer's man in the local office suggested that I open an account there. I answered that I would be glad to, because I do not like to take advantage of the hospitality offered to me. I asked for a copy of his firm's financial statement. He became evasive, pointing out that his firm is well-known, has been in existence for many years and is a member of the New York Stock Exchange.
Am I entitled to see a broker before I open an account?

A. We run into a technicality here. The rules of the New York Stock Exchange state, very clearly, that all customers of a member firm must be supplied with copies of the firm's financial statement upon request.
So, if you open an account, the answer is yes. And, even though you are not a customer, your announced intention to open an account would seem to entitle you to the same consideration. However, a brokerage firm should not be expected to pass out copies of its financial statement to everybody who walks in off the street.
Many people do go to brokerage offices to watch the ticker tape and get a lot of information.

With Churchills
LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker of Canada and his wife lunched with Sir Winston and Lady Churchill Thursday at the Churchill London residence.

Dear Abby: Why do short fellows ask tall girls for dates? Sometimes a girl just doesn't want to say no.
I am a tall girl and it seems that every shrimp I know wants to date me. Not wishing to hurt his feelings, I accept. Then I feel so foolish when we dance. Other people point at us, nudge each other and snicker.
Please print this, Abby, and tell short boys not to ask a girl who is taller than he is for a date. Thank you.
LONG TALL SALL

Dear Long Tall Sall: Not all tall girls share your point of view. Furthermore, a short fellow (please not a "shrimp") who asks a taller girl for a date is paying her a compliment. He assumes that she has the intelligence to measure a man for what he is—not how much of him there appears to be.
Dear Abby: Is there no justice for an innocent widow? I am 32 and have two children, 10 and 11. About six months ago I met a man who told me he was divorced. I fell for him hard. We started to make plans for marriage. Then one night he came over here with his suitcase. He said his wife had kicked him out of the house and he was moving in with me. I was stunned to learn that he was still married. I told him Oh, no, he wasn't, because although I loved him, I wouldn't live that way before my children. He left and his wife called me. She said she was divorcing him and naming me. I got in my car and went over there. Her story and his didn't jibe. She doesn't believe me, and if she names me, I will lose my job, and maybe my children. Can you help me, Abby?
DESPERATE

Dear Desperate: If you can't afford a lawyer, get in touch with your legal aid society. And the next man who tells you he is divorced, ask to see legal proof. If he's on the up and up, he'll respect you for your good sense. And if he isn't, the sooner you know it—the better.
Dear Abby: Our 24-year-old son has recently returned from the service. I realize that he is no longer a child but a grown man and what he does is none of my business. Yet while he is under my roof, isn't it my business where he goes, what he does, and what time he comes home?
I have other children (younger) and he is setting a very poor example by his conduct. He has gotten to be the talk of the town because of an affair he has been carrying on with a woman 15 years his senior.
Don't tell me to have his father talk to him. His father says he is a man and can do as he pleases. How can I keep him in line? Or can I?
HELPLESS

Dear Helpless: While your son is under your roof (at any age) it is your business how he conducts himself. If he is not willing to live more discreetly, you should ask him to headquarter elsewhere.

Confidential To Jennie: Of course the "circumstances" are important, but I would say that a man who had been married and divorced four times was a very, very, very poor risk for marriage.
"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen-agers Want To Know," send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this paper.

Know What's Going In The World? If You Don't, Teen-Agers Surely Do

By Eugene Gilbert
President, Gilbert Youth Research Co.

ASK A teen-ager about current events and chances are he'll know the answer. We wonder how many adults could do as well.

We found out in a newspaper readership survey that, with much in the know on what's going on in the world.

Grownups who think teenagers keep up only on the latest in movie stars or rock 'n' roll hits might try this test: Without reading any further here, see what answers you give to our "Questions Asked" list. Then compare them with our findings.

One item of interest: In a recent survey we did on teen-age newspaper readers, girls said they were more faithful readers than boys with 89 per cent — against 74 per cent of the boys — reading the paper every day.

But when we tested our young people on just how much they absorbed from their newspapers, boys generally were far ahead of the girls.

We polled 1,033 young people on a variety of recent news events and found that most of them had the correct answers except for two major weak spots:

One of these was: What democracy survived a threat to its survival this winter? This, of course, referred to France and the Algerian crisis. Among the girls, only one out of 10 responded correctly and 56 per cent — against 28 per cent of the boys — admitted they did not know. Forty-eight per cent of the boys against only 10 per cent of the girls, had the right answer.

Boys Know About Blast

Many of the young people thought the crisis referred to India. Tom Border, 16, of Hartford, Conn., explained the threat as "Communist troop infiltration" and to Rhodie Eagle, 8, of Brooklyn, N.Y., it was a "population explosion." Farthest off base was a girl who answered "Russia — the war with Hungary."

We wondered how adults would do on this one, which caught boys as well as girls: What does the Constitution say about political party conventions?

Only 41 per cent of the boys and 40 per cent of the girls were correct in knowing that it says nothing. Wrong answers from 14 per cent of the boys and 10 per cent of the girls. The others did not try to guess.

Boys showed their superior knowledge of current events in this one: What additional nation exploded an atomic bomb this year? Nine out of every 10 boys correctly answered "France." But among the girls, only 78 per cent had the right answer. Eight per cent were wrong and 15 per cent did not know.

The girls did better on the next question but still trailed the boys on why President Eisenhower can't run for another term. We found that 94 per cent of the boys and 86 per cent of the girls knew that the U.S. Constitution limits the President to two terms in office. Six per cent of the young people had the wrong answer. For example, Harvey Lauria, 19, of Brooklyn, N. Y., thought the President was "too old," and Sharon Schwartz, 14, of Bronx, N.Y., cited Eisenhower's health.

Three out of four boys and two out of every three girls knew that Eisenhower, Soviet Prime Minister Khrushchev and British Prime Minister Macmillan took similar action this year in making good will tour abroad. Girls trailed the boys percentage-wise on this one, 66 to 76.

Integration a Stumper
Our next question was a tough one and we didn't expect the young people to get it all. But we wanted to know if they could name the states which have not accepted token integration in their public schools.

No one knew all five (and how many adults can name them?—Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana and South Carolina.) Four per cent of our teenagers knew four of the states and 10 per cent could name three. Seventeen per cent knew two and 12 per cent named one. But 42 per cent couldn't name any of them and 15 per cent did not answer the question at all.

Most of the teen-agers erroneously thought Arkansas was one of the states because of the publicity it has received over public school integration.

We got a better response on this one: 86 per cent of both boys and girls knew that Alaska is our biggest state. Wrong answers came from 11 per cent — most of whom named Texas.

As to our smallest state, 93 per cent of the boys were correct with Rhode Island but only 74 per cent of the girls had that answer. Sixteen per cent of the girls were wrong, with many of them naming Hawaii.

We had a tricky question on how many senators are allowed in the largest and smallest states. Ninety per cent of the boys knew that two senators are allowed the smallest state. But only 78 per cent of the girls knew the number was the same for all states.

Out conclusion: girls had better concentrate a little more when they do their newspaper reading!

Nixon Outvoted Ike In Keystone

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon surpassed President Eisenhower's 1956 presidential preference vote in Pennsylvania, late returns show.

When county election boards completed their unofficial count election night, Nixon was a few thousand shy of his boosters' goal — dropping Eisenhower's record 551,503 votes of four years before. There were several precincts uncounted, however.

The final 30 precincts in West-Chester County and the last four in Delaware County reported Wednesday. This boosted Nixon's statewide count to 564,205, with those precincts still missing in the state.

BB's Husband Ordered Out

PARIS (AP)—Brigitte Bardot's film director is reported to have ordered her husband Jacques Charrier out of the studios because his jealousy spoiled her love scenes. The newspaper L'Aurore said Charrier got mad seeing actor Sumary Frey kissing Brigitte before the cameras.

George Clouzot told Charrier, "I don't want to see you here any more. You have no business in this studio."

Brigitte threw a tantrum, and walked out. But 10 minutes later everything was calm again. B.B. was kissing Frey. Clouzot was behind the cameras. Charrie was out.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

There have been so many "annual" dinners this week that the whole populace may be much better informed on retarded children, planned parents, mental health and Red Cross work, but they do have a tendency to gobble, due to all the turkey.

In fact things got so confused that one couple turned up at the planned parenthood dinner with tickets for the mental health dinner which wasn't until the next night. But, far from sneaking sheepishly home to eat bread and milk, they accommodately bought planned parenthood tickets and had a thoroughly enjoyable time.

We're not finished yet — but so far as I know everybody's going to be home for supper tonight, which will be a switch. The bowling luncheon was also a switch, if only because nobody was out to improve anything—not even their bowling scores, to judge by the averages.

Audrey Cohen earned high average, high single and most spares, but got more attention because of the fact that she has had her hair cut. The luncheon was also a "coming-out" party for Edna Pierson after her siege in the hospital, and the averages were by courtesy Cynthia Watt: they took the books to her at the hospital, if you please.

And if the weatherman please, we'd better have some sunshine this weekend or everybody's lawn is going to turn to hay. As it is, I need hip boots to reach the back porch with dry feet.

Jaconia-Smid

A marriage license was applied for yesterday from N. Henry Fenner, clerk of orphan's court, by Thomas F. Jaconia, Paterson, N. J., and Trina Phyllis Smid, East Stroudsburg.

Cotton, tobacco and fruits and vegetables are, in the order named, the three largest crops produced in the South.

Morey PTA Names New Officers

At the final meeting of the year for the Morey Parent-Teachers Assn. this week, the program was presented by the children under the direction of Mrs. Earl Willhoite. The Morey School chorus, who recently recorded with the Shawnee Choir sang, and there were instrumental solos with Barbara Keiser, piano; Bobby Shick, accordion and Ned Rahn, trombone.

New PTA officers elected included Floyd Kellogg, president; Ed Rahn, vice president. Mrs. R. D. Everitt, retiring president, told the group, "A PTA presidency is not always easy, and not always pleasant but it can be a rich learning opportunity. Just as there are codes of ethics for the legal, medical teaching and other professions, we need to develop ethics for the profession of parenthood. We, as parents, are not professional through training but we can qualify through experience if we are thoughtful and receptive to the opportunity.

"We demonstrate our status as amateurs by the problems our children bring to school, but we can demonstrate our maturity by our attitude of good will and interest toward our children's school, their teachers, and the organization in which we represent them.

Shopper

"the friendly store"
A.B. Wyckoff
STROUSBURG, PA.

The attractive lady shown with me in the picture below is Miss Laura McCarty, home economics supervisor for the schools of Monroe and Southern Wayne counties, Pen Argyl and Bangor, now participating in the Home Economics Days exhibits in Stroudsburg stores. Miss McCarty has a flashing smile, bright brown eyes, dark brown bangs, and a lot of pep and enthusiasm—all of which are wonderful assets for a teacher of executive.

She also has, for absolutely no reason at all, a bad case of the jitters about now, for this is the first time she has directed the annual exhibit which was organized years ago by Mr. Wyckoff at the instigation—and with the very able assistance—of the late Miriam Lark. It is a tribute to both of these "conspirators" in this worthy effort, that the Home Economics exhibit of today has expanded far and beyond the available space here in our store.

MISS LAURA McCARTY AND THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

There is, of course, no reason at all for Miss McCarty to be worried. Everything has been going along beautifully thus far, with stores up and down our busy Main street setting up student displays devoted to all phases of home making from decorating and flower arrangement to cake baking and sewing. Those displays are excellent—and even yummy! Visit the two banks of Stroudsburg to see the cakes (nearly 100 of them) with layers and layers, and glorious frostings, and you'll know exactly what I mean.

Perhaps Miss McCarty's most tense moments will be this evening when the prize winning seamstress model their apparel in a fashion show beginning on our second floor, leading down to our center aisle, and back through the Tea Room. She will be doing the commentary . . . and, if I have judged her as accurately as I think, it will be splendid and well worth hearing.

In the picture above we both look relaxed and happy against a cool, rippling waterfall which our customers will immediately recognize as one of the Pocono Mountain scenes depicted in our Tea Room. I print this picture for two reasons: first, I would like to personally introduce Miss McCarty to you, with every wish that she will be "on the scene" for many years to come as a part of our Economics Exhibits . . . and second, I happen to like this shot of myself taken by Arthur Widmer. Most pictures of me are horrible (mainly because the camera hasn't much to work with) . . . but this one I like. Of course, that expression "hasn't much to work with" might be challenged too—for I certainly do look well fed and plentiful. (Which is all right in this case, After all, as I said before, this was taken in our WYCKOFF TEA ROOM!)

Shop Stroudsburg today and Saturday for BONUS savings on many timely and desirable purchases. BONUS DAYS at Wyckoff's will surprise and delight you, and were planned with YOU in mind.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

For Friday, May 13, 1960
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Show up a bit in early day to be sure you are not racing through to a faster, but less proficient finish. Odd mistakes can occur with heedlessness. Shun aggravation.
April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Take care of personal and social matters in as quiet and efficient manner as you would business affairs. Temptation to hurry and irritate for many signs today.
May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Take care you do not get caught in crossfire of others' troubled waters. Steer clear of squabbles, your nature does not (nor will associates) thrive under contention. Check budget.
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Those "little" things can pile up and get you "down," annoyed. If not on guard, smile, again and again. Nothing is as difficult as it seems at the onset.
July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You could easily handle an extra chore or aid another to finish quicker, or assist at a charity affair, and be the better for it now, as always. Mind the disposition and manner.
August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Review to note where you are being too minute or perhaps demanding in detail. The bigger the day, then the bigger the participation. Certain gradual changes necessary.
September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — "Baste makes waste." And the redoing is also annoying. So prevent this and wear some discussions by forethought, accuracy, proper cooperation.
October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — A spot for some of your ingenuity, precise figures, new ideas to inspire, and ambition to create and improve. But hold energies not to overdo.
November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Forgetfulness, carelessness can over-turn well-laid plans, delay good results. Take first steps cautiously, don't talk too much, and listen attentively; recipe for success.
December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — You can make or break this day. Be methodical and personal charm, or lack of it. People like to be thought of, praised a bit (we are all flattered under just praise).
January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Transcend one of few barriers in strong favorable count. You have a clearer, smoother road, but because others about you may be troubled or have it less easy, take more care.
February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — If you start right, and aim steady, if at all, you'll soundly planned goals. You can make some unusual strides. But there are obstacles, as take sure aim, and heed danger signals. You'll have a smoother road, but because others about you may be troubled or have it less easy, take more care.

Sailors Lake To Stock 1,000 Trout

Sailors Lake Fishing Assn. will stock Sailors Lake with 1,000 mixed trout on Saturday, May 21 at 4 p.m.

Fishing will be resumed at 5 a.m. Sunday, May 22. Mitchell Yelovick of Freemansburg has caught the longest trout at the lake, 21-inches. Henry Nahman of Perkasie is in second place with a 20½-inch catch.

Tamiment Opens Golfer's Golf Course

Tamiment has opened its scenic golf course for the season. The challenging course, designed by Robert Trent Jones, features a 20-mile view from the third hole.

The course is also a study in contrasts. The greens on the older front side feature mounds and sharp breaks in contours, while the back greens are highlighted by subtle breaks.

The layout is a golfer's golf course. Every shot must be played differently and if you lose a stroke, there are few places to make it up.

And it is the type of course that gives every club in the bag a workout.

Point System Golf Makes For Easy Matches

Point system golf is sweeping the South, like pyramid clubs took the nation.

The big feature of point golf is that a scratch golfer can play a 20-handicapper on even terms.

The match is based on 36 points, or two points per hole. Boggles earn one point, pars two points, birdies three points and eagles four points. No points are given for anything over bogies.

A scratch golfer must make up 36 points, while the 20 handicapper has to scrape up 16 points.

Results are reported as plus or minus. If the scratch golfer can only get 30 points, he is minus six. If he finishes with 38 points, he is plus two.

Phils Release Simmons Send Short To Minors

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Curt Simmons, next to last of the 1959 Philadelphia National League champions known as the Whiz Kids, was released by the Phillies Thursday.

Actually Simmons' release and the optioning of pitcher Chris Short to Indianapolis, the Phillies' American Assn. farm, came just 15 minutes before the midnight deadline Wednesday night, enabling the club to get down to the 25-player limit.

The Phillies are temporarily without a southpaw on the mound staff, as a result.

Furillo Put On Dodgers' Inactive List

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers placed veteran outfielder Carl Furillo on the inactive list Thursday night and recalled Frank Howard from Spokane.

Furillo, a formidable figure in the National League most of the last 15 years, has been troubled this season by bad legs and has started only one game. He has a lifetime major league batting average of .299.

Back Friday

Howard will join the Dodgers in San Francisco Friday. In 26 games this season with Spokane in the Pacific Coast League, he has batted .371, driven in 24 runs and hit 4 homers. He hit 43 homers in the minors last season.

Furillo said only Wednesday night he hoped to play out this season and perhaps even come back next year.

Two Choices If Bill Fails

Kefauver Bill May Hold Future Of Continental Loop Says Shea

NEW YORK (AP) — Founder Bill Shea said Thursday his Continental League has one of two alternatives if the pending congressional bill to curb the major leagues' alleged monopoly fails to pass.

"Declare war or quit," Shea, in a press conference, charged organized baseball with throwing roadblocks in the Continental League's efforts to operate. He insisted, however, that the original April 1961 opening was still the target date.

Shea, who has been critical of the majors' motives ever since he started trying to bring another major league team to New York, reiterated his support of the bill by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) to limit control of players by the big leagues. The anti-monopoly subcommittee, headed by Kefauver, opens hearings in Washington a week from Thursday.

"The Kefauver bill is the only hope the Continental League has of getting players and going into business," he said. "The majors have been fighting us with the strongest weapon they have . . . delay, time is the thing that is hitting us in every direction."

"It must be obvious to all now what always has been clear to me—that they (the majors) don't want us in organized baseball and are doing everything possible to hinder us."

Shea said he had been summoned to testify at the hearings. Also summoned were Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, league presidents Warren Giles of the National, Joe Cronin of the American and Branch Rickey of the Continental.

"If the bill passes, it won't mean the end of the minors as Frick professes. On the contrary, it will help the minors. If the bill fails, it doesn't mean the end of the Continental League. It simply means that our only alternatives are war or quit. That is, unless the majors do an about face and agree to cooperate."

Shea declined to state specifically that the Continental League would go outlaw but it appeared obvious that is what he meant.

Shea said his organization had reached an impasse in its negotiations with the International League and American Assn. regarding indemnities for seven franchises. They are Buffalo and Toronto in the IL and Denver, Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, and Minneapolis and St. Paul in the AA.

Little League Books Plans For Opening

OFFICERS and managers of the Stroudsburg Little League met at the YMCA last night and completed plans for inaugurating the 1960 season on Saturday, May 21.

Jack Mullins, president, said opening ceremonies will include a parade from Seventh and Main Sts., starting at 10 a.m., and ending at the Little League Field.

The Stroudsburg Junior High School Band will provide the music for the six uniformed teams in the line of march and also play the "Star Spangled Banner" during flag-raising ceremonies at the field.

First Ball Ceremony

Burgess Edward A. Doran will throw out the first ball. Borough police will escort the parade to the ball park.

All six teams are scheduled for games on the opening day, Mullins said. The schedule will be announced later.

Mullins also reported that East Stroudsburg Lodge of Elks will sponsor one of the teams this year, taking over the franchise relinquished by Stout Glass Co., a sponsor for three years.

Red Sox Blank Chicago

BOSTON (AP)—Pete Runnels' bases loaded single in the ninth inning brought home the Boston run that beat Chicago 1-0 in support of Tom Brewer's brilliant two-hit pitching.

Two singles, a sacrifice and a force play at the plate preceded the winning blow.

Right-hander Brewer had allowed only a double by Minnie Minoso in the first inning and a single by Luis Aparicio with two out in the White Sox third.

Looks Bad But after Boston left two runners stranded in the eighth with still no runs against Bob Shaw it looked discouraging for the home forces.

Shaw, the American League pitcher with the highest winning percentage of '59 for the pennant winners, had been rough in the clutch until the ninth when he literally threw the game away.

Nixon's Blast Keeps Yanks Out Of First

NEW YORK (AP)—Russ Nixon hit his first home run of the season Thursday to give Cleveland's Gary Bell a 3-2 victory over New York's Ralph Terry in an 11-inning pitching duel.

The defeat kept the Yankees from taking over the American League lead because the Chicago White Sox had lost in Boston. As a result the Yanks dropped to fourth place, one game off the pace, and Boston moved into second with Cleveland third.

First Pitch

Nixon's homer into the lower right field seats came on Terry's first pitch to him in the 11th. There was one man out at the time.

Bell, calmly nailing down his fourth victory while handing Terry his first defeat, put down the Yanks in order in the 11th. He had allowed 10 hits to nine off Terry. It was the Yanks' third straight loss, all in extra innings.

Cleveland 010 000 100 01—3 9 0 N. York 000 010 010 00—2 10 1 Bell and Nixon; Terry and Howard. W.—Bell (4-1), L.—Terry (1-1).

Maxwell Leads Texas Golf With 67; Barber Second

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Billy Maxwell, seldom first place but always in the money, shot a 3-under-par 67 Thursday to take the first round lead in the $30,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

Maxwell, one of the most consistent money winners in golf but without a tournament victory for two years, took a 1-stroke lead over the field of 54. The Texan, who registers out of Oceanside, Calif., was terrific on the greens this sunny day.

Par Beaters Par took a beating over the 7,041-yard Colonial Country Club course and one of those fracturing it was little Jerry Barber, the mighty mite of the links who was continuing the hot golf started in winning the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas last weekend.

Barber shot a 2-under-par 68. Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, five times winner of the tournament and Johnny Palmer of Tulsa, champion here in 1954, were among a group shooting 69.

Arnold Palmer of Lionier, Pa., the year's leading money winner and the favorite here, had a steady 71.

Major Owners Set Meeting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Owners of all 16 major league baseball teams will huddle in a "summit meeting" of their own next Tuesday in Chicago.

The policy pow-wow was announced in Columbus Wednesday by John W. Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Galbreath, a multi-millionaire real estate operator, said he invited all the other owners to the Chicago meeting and all have accepted his invitation.

Galbreath did not mention the threat of the proposed Continental League to the status quo of organized baseball, but he did say that the meeting had been suggested by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

Giants Buy Dave Philley

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Giants Thursday purchased Dave Philley, switch hitting outfielder, for the $25,000 waiver price from Philadelphia. He will be 40 years old May 16. Philley will be used as a pinch hitter.

The Giants sent rookie catcher Neil Wilson to Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League on option to hold at the 25-player limit.

Ingo Stunned By Mate Quits Ring

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Ingenmar Johansson got a teeth-jarring belt from one of his sparring mates Thursday, and quit his workouts in a huff.

Disappointing a small gathering, he stalked out of the ring to his dressing room and gave orders that he'd never work out again with strong lights on the ring.

Newsreel cameramen were taking shots with bright lights when Johansson was jolted by a new sparring partner, Cotez Stewart.

The blow seemed to stun the Swedish fighter momentarily. He refused to go through the usual bag-punching and rope-skiping exercises, with which he normally winds up his drills.

"I didn't see the blow coming because of the lights," Johansson said. "No more lights when I work—that's orders."

New Training Rules For 7th Place Phils

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies' baseball club was sat on twice Thursday.

Prior to its defeat by San Francisco 1-0 on a two-hitter by former teammate Jack Sanford, Manager Gene Mauch spent seven minutes in a closed-door clubhouse meeting saying he is dissatisfied with players' behavior off the ball field. He set down some new rules, including a curfew.

"I'd rather not say what the rules are," the 34-year-old manager said. "All I want these players to realize is that baseball is their livelihood—not a way to have fun."

No special incident triggered his action, Mauch said.

New York Golfer Rated Top Yark In British Am

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — With 1959 Champion Deane Beman of Silver Spring, Md., absent, many experts here rate Tim Holland of Rockville Centre, N.Y., as the leading American threat in the British Amateur Golf Championship. Beman will be unable to defend the title because of his studies at the University of Maryland.

The tournament will be played May 23-28 over the Royal Portrush course in northern Ireland, and 18 of the 183 entrants included in Thursday's draw are Americans.

No American was included among the eight seeded entrants, however. Two seeded players were assigned to each quarter, and all are British or Irish.

Meets Frant

Holland, 29 and a semifinalist in 1958, meets Peter Frant of Phoenix, Ariz., in the first round. Joe Carr of Ireland, a Walker Cupper and twice winner of the amateur, is in the same bracket. He is seeded with Mike Bonallack, another British Walker Cup player, in the first quarter. This quarter includes eight Americans.

Three of the eight drew first-round byes. They are Maj. Dempsey Hallard, Abilene, Tex.; Jack Penrose of Miami Beach, Fla., and Don Dawson of Detroit. Maj. C. V. Leishner, American serviceman stationed in England, plays D. H. Clendon of New Zealand; Arnold Cerami of Miami Beach drew Doug Blackie of Ireland, and Thomas Packard (no U.S. hometown) will take on Arthur McCoy of Ireland.

John Humm of Baldwin, N.Y., and Edward Brantley, a serviceman stationed in Heidelberg, Germany, are the only Americans in the second quarter. Humm meets Charles Dugan-Chapman of England and Brantley plays John Faith of Ireland in the first round.

Uniontown Student Running Rapidly In Dad's Footsteps

UNIONTOWN, (AP) — You've heard of boys who walk in their dad's footsteps, Joe Thomas of Uniontown did this a little differently — he ran.

The 135-pound Uniontown High School senior is the fastest high school miler in the eastern part of the country.

Thomas wrote a new page in eastern U. S. track records by flashing over the mile in 4:14.9 early this month at the Mt. Lebanon Invitational at Pittsburgh.

This is the third best time for the scholastic mile in the whole country.

Young Thomas smiles when he talks about beating his dad. He says it was his greatest triumph. The elder Thomas, a Uniontown policeman, has done a lot to help Joe along. Everytime the boy runs in a meet, he sits in the stands with a stop watch in his hand shouting encouragement.

Not Naturally Gifted

Uniontown Track Coach Abe Everhart says Thomas has developed speed despite the fact he isn't naturally gifted. Discussing Joe's performance in one race, he said:

"Joe fought off his fatigue in the middle of the race to come back strong and place second after trailing a poor third. This boy is the kind that makes a great athlete, fighting through fatigue to a second wind and renewed effort."

Coch Everhart thinks Thomas could make the 1960 Olympic team in the steeplechase or the 5,000-meter run and in 1964 in the 3,000-meter.

Nears 800 Mark

In addition, Thomas is only two seconds away from holding the fastest half mile record in the state. The record is 1:55.6, held by Howard Dendford of Johnstown.

His father, Joe Thomas Sr., was a pretty good miler in his day. He ran it in 4:51 in 1935, a good time in those days.

Braves Top Cards

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Big Eddie Mathews crashed his third homer within 24 hours and sixth of the season in the eighth inning Thursday to boost the Milwaukee Braves to a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mathews, who topped the majors with 46 circuit clouts last year, picked out a none ball delivery from Larry Jackson, the third St. Louis pitcher, for his game winning holst deep into the runway in right.

The 28-year-old slugger, who also contributed a pair of singles, unloaded the 30th homer of his career after the Cards had tied the count on three walks and a sacrifice fly in the top of the eighth.

The Braves' only other offensive gesture was in the opening inning when they put together three runs on as many hits and walks against St. Louis starter Vinegar Bend Mizell.

Simcas Average 38 m.p.g. in mileage marathon

At a gasoline cost of less than a cent a mile, two stock Simca economy sedans carrying United States Auto Club observers completed a 2,826 mile Simca Mileage Marathon under actual driving conditions between 20 major U. S. cities from Los Angeles to New York at a total cost for regular gas of $22.28. They averaged 38.058 miles per gallon in combined city traffic and highway driving for the entire run and consumed a total of 74,267 gallons of regular gas. Simca officials called this the "biggest, most meaningful mileage test ever run on an imported car in the U. S."

MORAL: "Wherever you look, there are new economy cars. But when you look twice, chances are it's a SIMCA! You just can't find a better looking, more value-packed car for so little money. Convince yourself . . . test drive a Simca today!"
